30 January 2022

Sentence

Now we see in a mirror, dimly, but then we will see face to face. Now I know only in part; then I will know fully, even
as I have been fully known.

(1 Corinthians 13.14)

Collect

Living God, in Christ you make all things
new: transform the poverty of our nature by the riches of your grace,
and in the renewal of our lives make known your glory; through Jesus Christ
our Lord, who is alive and reigns with you and the Holy Spirit, one God, now
and for ever. Amen.

REFLECTION ON TODAY'S GOSPEL READING (Luke 4.21-30)

Jesus' hearers were surprised at the way he spoke but they were not moved to change. After all, he was just the son of Joseph, and someone they knew so well could have nothing to say to them. But they were wrong. He makes a huge claim he has been anointed by the Spirit. He is, in other words, the Messiah himself.

Prophetic voices being rejected by their own was a common phenomenon in the past and continues to be today. This rejection was something Jesus foretold would also happen to his followers, simply for proclaiming Jesus's vision of life. His vision of life was to 'bring good news to the poor; to proclaim release to the captives and recovery of sight to the blind; to let the oppressed go free, to proclaim the year of the Lord's favour.'

What is my vision for life? Where are the prophetic voices in my life and in our world today? What is their message? Am I inclined to accept it or reject it?

REFLECTION ON FIFTH SUNDAY AFTER EPIPHANY – LUKE 5.1-11 (6 February 2022)

An adventure is about to unfold, an encounter that is radical and life changing. Simon the fisherman, called by Jesus to go beyond his comfort zone, puts the boat of his life out into deep waters. His faith and trust is rewarded abundantly. From that moment forward his entire life is hooked on Jesus.

Lord, you tell us, as you told Simon, to 'Put out into the deep water'. You are ready to surprise us with the depths we can find in ourselves, with the work you can do through us. Save us from complacency, from settling for a routine existence. Open us to recognising your hand in our daily encounters.
